GAA sponsored show set for June

The GAA will be hosting the 2018 Southern National Junior Angus Show set for June 7-8 in Perry at the Georgia National Fairgrounds. Angus enthusiasts are invited to take part in this year's event - "The Biggest Little Show in the South."

Check-in will take place on Thursday, June 7. Angus juniors 21 years-old and younger can compete in this year's show which will take place on Friday, June 8 beginning at 9 a.m. This year's junior show judge is Zach Bartenslager with the University of Tennessee.

The GAA will be awarding additional premiums this year! The Grand Champion Heifer will receive $1,500 and the Reserve Champion Heifer will be receiving $750. The show will also include showmanship, Bred-and-Owned Bull show, steer show, Cow/Calf Pair show and will be recognizing the bred-and-owned females.

The show committee is seeking show sponsorships, volunteers and silent auction items. If you would like to assist with the show, please email Christy Page at info@georgiaangus.org for more information.

GAA members gathered for annual meeting and banquet

Georgia Angus Association (GAA) members joined together on Saturday, March 3 for Angus fun and fellowship in Athens, Ga., at the UGA Livestock Arena. The group met for seminars and trade show, their annual meeting, enjoyed a social hour and later gathered for a CAB dinner and award presentations during the banquet.

The day started with a line-up of industry speakers and the opportunity to interact with industry leading vendors. The GAA was very fortunate to have Kelli Retallick as one of the guest speakers. Retallick, the director of genetic services for Angus Genetics, Inc., discussed the most recent enhancements to the American Angus Association's weekly genetic evaluation, how they are making EPDs better, how they affect you as a producer and what is on the horizon for the future of the Angus breed. Kristin Toll, with Member Services of the American Angus Association, was the second speaker and discussed Angus Login. GAA President Doug Williams called the annual meeting to order. Committee chairs presented a recap of 2017 association activities and discussed what was ahead for 2018. Additionally, newly elected GAA directors were announced. A complete set of minutes from the annual meeting are included on page 7.

At this year's banquet, Angus royalty were recognized, two individuals were elected into the Georgia

Angus Hall of Fame, the Commercial Producer of the Year was recognized, and pages for the 2018-19 GAA Membership Directory were auctioned off.

Congratulations to everyone that was recognized with an award and to the newly elected GAA officers and directors. Thank you to all of those that attended, brought door prizes, Georgia Angus Auxiliary members for volunteering to help, and to the banquet committee for planning the event.

Letter from your President

Dear Friends and Fellow Angus Breeders -

Greetings! I hope everyone is enjoying spring finally. Driving up and down the road, the grass is turning green everywhere and the first cutting of ryegrass is on the minds of many. I pray the recent moisture we've experienced is felt throughout the spring and summer allowing us to fill our hay barns. Please remember the wildfire victims in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas. This time last year they experienced similar devastation, but also witnessed firsthand how the agricultural community rallied to lend a helping hand.

The mission of the Georgia Angus Association is to provide greater marketing opportunities and educational forums for purebred and commercial producers alike. In March, the GAA held our annual banquet and also worked to reestablish our spring consignment sale. The sale was held at MM/Glore Cattle Company in Bowdon, Ga and was well received by all. A standing room only crowd watched 48 lots of quality Angus genetics averaged $2,804. A heartfelt thanks goes out to all the consignors and purchasers who helped make this event successful. I encourage all producers to help support this important state event every year. Everyone will agree the "Rome isn't built in a day", and the same goes for our state association sale.

We are preparing diligently for the upcoming Southern National Angus show to be held in conjunction with the Georgia Club Calf Producers Shows. This will be an excellent opportunity for families to exhibit their heifers three different times at one location. The Southern National will be held on Friday, June 8, 2018. Grand and Reserve Champion heifers will receive $1500 and $750, respectively. We hope the added premiums will help reinvigorate this segment of the association as youth are the backbone of the GAA.

In closing, it is an honor and privilege to serve as your president. If you ever need anything, or just want to voice an opinion, my phone is always charged. Speaking for the board, it is our intention to make this the best state association in the country. It will require the work of many, but anything worth doing is worth doing right.

Best regards,

Andrew McPeake

About the Georgia Angus Hall of Fame Inductees

The Georgia Angus Association Hall of Fame award was established in 2010 to recognize individuals that have made significant contributions to the Angus industry in Georgia and across the country. This year's inductees were Harvey Lemmon and Tom Burke.

David Gazda

David Gazda was born in Champaign, Illinois but was raised in Athens, Georgia. He was a 1978 graduate of Cedar Shoals High School and a 1983 graduate of the University of Georgia where he obtained a degree in Agricultural Economics. While at the University of Georgia, he was active in the Block and Bridle Club where he served as president and chairman of the Great Southland Stampede Rodeo. He was also active in Alpha Zeta and AgHon where he served as president. In addition, he was a member of the 1982 Meats and Livestock Judging Team.

In June of 1983, upon graduation from the University of Georgia, he became the farm manager for the Stephen F. Austin State University Animal Science Farms, in Nacogdoches, Texas where he managed three species of livestock and assisted in teaching labs and coaching the livestock judging team. He and Carolyn got married in August of 1983 and lived in Nacogdoches until June of 1985 when she completed her master's degree and they moved back to Georgia.

David managed RSE Farms during the summer and early fall of 1985 and then he and Carolyn took positions at Quercus Farms, in Gay, Georgia (A purebred Limousin operation) where he was the cow-calf manager and she managed the embryo transfer program.

In the March of 1988, his parents, George and Barbara Gazda came to Quercus for an afternoon visit and mentioned in passing that Scott Weller was leaving his position as a Regional Manager for the American Angus Association in the southeast. David called Harvey Lemmon, who lived just down the road in Woodbury, Georgia and who happened to be the President of the American Angus Association to inquire about the position. At that time, David and Carolyn didn't have a computer so Carolyn went to the Meriwether County Extension office and typed up his resume. David flew to St. Joseph and interviewed for the position and in April of 1988, Dick Spader called and offered him the position asking him to give the Association as least five years. May 1, 2018 will mark David's 30th anniversary as a Regional Manager. His primary territory was Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina. In the summer of 2014, his territory was restructured and became, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi. In the fall of 2016 the territory of Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana was reinstated, and David's territory became Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. In May of 2015, the North Carolina Angus Association inducted David into their Hall of Fame.

In August of 2016, as the longest serving Regional Manager, Allen Moczygemba tapped David to be the Director of Field Services where he guides and works directly with 12 other Regional Managers throughout the country.

While a regional manager, he has helped guide junior organizations in Georgia, North and South Carolina hosting six Eastern Regionals between them and two National Junior Angus Shows in Georgia. He has also managed the National Western Bull Sale since 2005.

David has also been active in the Georgia Cattlemen's Association serving on the Executive Committee and as President in 2013. As President of GCA, his main focus was establishing a Young Cattlemen's Council as a way to bridge the gap between the junior association and the Georgia Cattlemen's Association drawing the younger cattlemen in as a way to become more involved. In 2014, the Young Cattlemen's Council established the David Gazda YCC Visionary Award and made him the recipient of that first award.

David and Carolyn have two grown daughters, Katie and Taylor who grew up in the Angus breed and now make careers promoting Agriculture and Livestock. Katie (Duvall) as the Executive Director of the Georgia Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture and Taylor (Stipe) as the Social Media Director and Sales Associate for Ranch House Designs. They also have one grandson, David Hudson Stipe who is already a member of the National Junior Angus Association and has his own small herd of Angus cows.

John Jarrell

John William Jarrell Sr. was born in Butler, Georgia, June 21, 1949. He was the son of Fred Stanford Jarrell, Sr. and Estelle Spinks Jarrell. He graduated from Taylor County High School in 1967. He was active in 4-H and FFA in high school and helped his dad farm and raise hogs and cattle. John showed hogs at the fairs in middle Georgia and at hog shows. He won many first place ribbons. John helped his father with his pig operation and farming until his father died in the late 80's.

After high school, John went to Abraham Baldwin College for two years and graduated with an Associate degree. He then attended the University of Georgia for two years and graduated in 1971 with a degree in Animal Science.

On June 13, 1971, John married the love of his life Nina Payne Jarrell. They returned to live on the Jarrell Family Farm that was established in 1904 by John's grandfather Floyd Jarrell. Their son Jay (John William Jarrell, Jr) was born on March 14, 1975 and their daughter Jennifer Payne Jarrell was born on April 8, 1979

Jay married Kim Albritton and they have a son John William Jarrell, III better known as John Will and a daughter Hadley Jo Jarrell. Jay lives on the farm in Butler. Jennifer married Keith Carpenter and they have a daughter Anna Elizabeth Carpenter better know as Anna Beth. Jennifer and her family live in Butler.

John went to work for his uncle Dr. Harold Jarrell and managed Timms Creek Plantation. John managed the farm for Dr. Jarrell from June 2017 until Dr. Jarrell's death on August 21, 2010. John worked weekends and summers in the late 1960's while attending UGA on the farm as Harold begin buying registered Angus cattle, building up a herd, clearing land and putting up fences.

John also cared for and managed Dr. Jarrell's Thoroughbred Horses from 1970 until the early 1980's. John hauled mares from the farm to Florida to be bred and back to foal in Florida. He traveled with Dr. Jarrell to attend horse sales in Florida, Kentucky, and New York.

In the beginning of John's farm career, he looked after the cows, horses, planted row crops- corn, soybeans, rye, wheat, peanuts, and grew Coastal for hay. In the late 1990's, he realized due to the deer and wild hogs he could not make a crop and stopped planting corn, soybeans and peanuts. He concentrated on feed for cattle and hay. John spent his entire life learning to be a good steward of the land and studying the latest in farming technology.

For almost three decades, John served on the Taylor County Board of Education and was chairman for several years. The Georgia State School Board Association awarded him a pen for his service on the school board for his 20 years of service and again for his 25 year mark. He served on the Taylor County ASCS Board, Georgia Farm Bureau Board, Georgia Angus Association Board, Georgia Cattlemen's Bull Test Committee and Thomaston Sale Barn Board. He was a member of the Georgia Cattlemen's Association and the American Angus Association.

John was a lifetime member and leader in the Union United Methodist Church and the Howard Charge. John loved his church and to see the Jarrell family come together every fourth Sunday for church and then go to lunch at his Grandmother and Grandfather Jarrell's house. A tradition still carried on today with many of the cousins from the original ten Jarrell children coming home to visit the farm.

John was a friend to all. He exhibited a kind, gentle, generous, and humble spirit and was considerate and patient in all aspects of his life. His values, integrity, loyalty and devotion to duty were reflected in family, marriage, and daily living. His wisdom and positive outlook influenced and encouraged his strong faith through service and love for others. He was devoted to the land and the cattle, but he always had time for his wife, his children and later his grandchildren.

Angus Convention in the Buckeye State

An exciting and bustling city located in the heart of Ohio will play host to the 2018 National Angus Convention and Trade Show this fall.

Whether visiting the many Angus breeders in the area or taking a short trip to visit the Certified Angus Beef ®(CAB®) brand headquarters — it's a location that embodies the heart of the grain industry and the rich history of the world's most recognizable branded beef program. CAB's 40th Anniversary will be at the core of the "celebration"-themed event.

The Angus Convention is headed to the Buckeye State for the first time ever. It is a gathering place for all quality-minded cattle producers and friends from every sector of the cattle business and offers industry-leading education, networking and entertainment.

The first weekend in November, Angus breeders, commercial cattlemen and allied industry partners will join together to learn and set a vision for the future, participate in the organization's Annual Convention of Delegates, take in the bustling trade show and enjoy all the Angus history Ohio has to offer.

"We want to invite everyone to the 2018 Angus Convention in my home state of Ohio," said American Angus Association Board Member John Grimes of Hillsboro, Ohio. "The state is home to a large agricultural sector and most importantly, is home to some unique Angus legends and history."

Nearly 2,500 cattlemen and women attended the 2017 Angus Convention in Fort Worth, Texas, making it the largest-ever Angus Convention. The American Angus Association looks forward to a growing crowd for this year's event in Columbus. The downtown convention center will host activities and events Nov. 3-5, including the renowned trade show.

Before the official start of the convention, the Ohio Angus Association will host the National Angus Tour on Friday, Nov. 2, where participants will spend a day exploring the area's leading Angus operations and the Certified Angus Beef brand headquarters. The tour is always a fan favorite at the Angus Convention, and it's the perfect way to start the weekend's Angus events.

The tour will include an insider's look at the CAB headquarters and culinary center. Learn how the team accomplishes anything from recipe development to international marketing and brand management. The tour will also include cooking demonstrations with Chef Tony Biggs, director of culinary arts, and a visit to the meat lab with a meat scientist, along with a delicious lunch.

During the Angus Convention, guests will hear from keynote speakers that inspire forward thinking and vision for the future of the quality beef business through Angus University, sponsored by Merck Animal Health. In breakout sessions, practical applications are shared on topics ranging from cattle health and management, to understanding genomics and evolving technology.

The Angus Genomics Symposium, sponsored by Neogen GeneSeek Operations, will feature presenters, academic professionals and industry leaders who will explore how producers can apply new ideas to their home operations.

Champions named at Georgia National Jr Livestock Show

Georgia junior Angus exhibitors exhibited 68 Angus heifers and steers during the 2018 Georgia National Junior Livestock Shows held February 22-24 in Perry. Harlan Yocham, Sapulpa, Okla., evaluated the entries. All registered Angus champions were awarded additional premiums by the GAA if the junior exhibitor was a member of the GJAA by February 15 and if the animal was bred by a member of the GAA.

The Cattlemen's Black Book

For years, Angus producers from across the country have kept herd records using the pocket-sized Angus black books. Stacks of the books, some dating back more than 30 years, contain handwritten information about the producer's cattle, memories of where their operations have been and where they are today.

Every detail counts when it comes to managing a profitable herd, and the American Angus Association® is now accepting orders for the 2019 edition of the black book.

"Black books can be the most cost-effective herd management system for your operation," says Ginette Gottswiller, Association director of commercial programs. "They are a popular item with both registered and commercial producers of all sizes."

The 2019 books are available in any quantity for $3.25 each and can be customized, free of charge, with purchases of 100 or more. Customized orders may include the operation's logo and contact information foil stamped onto the back cover, while standard orders feature the Association's logo.

Orders must be placed no later than July 31 and customized orders should be proofed prior to sending in the information.

The black books are a way for commercial cattle producers to collect the information they need for verification programs such as AngusSource or enrolling in marketing programs like AngusLink. Angus seedstock producers find the black book helpful to record information to submit to the Association office. The books include sections for recording pasture usage, calf information, AI breeding records, supplement and cattle treatment records, in addition to a section for notes and a yearly calendar.

GAA Annual Meeting Minutes

The 2018 GAA Annual Meeting was called to order by President Doug Williams at 5:45 p.m. on Saturday, March at the UGA Livestock Arena in Athens, Ga. An invocation was given by Smitty Lamb.

First, the minutes and financials were discussed.

Motion A motion was made by Phil Page, seconded by Andrew McPeake, and unanimously passed to dispense with the reading of the minutes from the January 21, 2017 GAA Annual Meeting and accept them as presented in the Spring 2017 Cow Chips.

Motion A motion was made by Mike McCravy, seconded by Alan Bridges, and unanimously passed by all approving the financials dated December 31, 2017.

Next, President Williams called for committee reports.

In Angus Promotion & Membership, Andrew McPeake, Fred Gretsche and Alan Bridges serve as committee members. The committee reported there were 209 GAA Members in 2017. GAA Directors try to attend as many cattle industry events and Angus sales throughout the state as possible including the Georgia Cattlemen's Convention and Sunbelt Ag Expo. Alan Bridges reported on the Seminars that took place earlier that day.

Christy Page reported on the Banquet Committee. Last year's banquet was held January 21 at The Classic Center and included around 115 people. Page thanked everyone for coming to the 2018 banquet and was anticipating a crown of 125. She said she welcomed any feedback about the new meeting location.

The Junior Activities Committees is chaired by Clay Williams. Committee members include Doug and Tammy Williams, Todd Alford, and Trae and Amanda Lovin. Junior Angus members participated in various state and national events throughout 2017 including Raising the Bar, LEAD and the National Junior Angus Show and they were gearing up for activities in 2018.

The Resource Committee sales ads in the membership directory. Committee members include Phil Page, Andrew McPeake and Adam Verner. Andrew McPeake reported in 2017, 36 ads were sold which brought in more than $24,000. 2018 ads will be auctioned off at the banquet tonight. Highest bidder gets page of choice. All ads sold tonight will be based on black and white copy, and color can be purchased for additional charges. 2018 Ad deadline – April 25, 2018!

The Southern National Angus Show committee report was given by Smitty Lamb. Other committee members included Carolyn Gazda, Andrew McPeake, John Lovin, Todd and Holly Alford, and Phil and Christy Page. Last year's show was cancelled due to lack of participation. The committee is working with the Georgia Club Calf Producers Association to host a joint event. The show would be held June 7-8, 2018 in Perry, Ga.

In new business, Christy Page presented the 2018 Proposed Budget.

Motion A motion was made by Alan Bridges, seconded by Smitty Lamb, and unanimously passed by all approving the 2018 Proposed Budget.

President Williams encouraged GAA members to get involved with the committees and to sign-up to assist.

Christy Page then made the announcement of the newly elected directors. An election was recently conducted by mail by the Georgia Angus membership to elect 7 new people to serve on the Georgia Angus Association Board of Directors. Those people recently elected to serve a two year term include: Fred Gretsche, Smitty Lamb, Mike McCravy, Andrew McPeake, Kyle Potts, Clay Williams and Doug Williams. They will join 7 directors who are beginning the second year of their two-year-term and include: Todd Alford, Wilkes Barnett, Alan Bridges, Cole Elrod, Carolyn Gazda, Phil Page and Adam Verner.

The meeting was adjourned.

Congratulations

- To Katie (Gazda) and Zeb Duvall who were united in marriage on November 18, 2017.
- To Taylor (Gazda) and Garrett Stipe who were united in marriage February 17, 2018.
